Pascal spent most of his time in the Telecoms, Space and Tech sectors.

After five years at TRT Philips Communications Systems over South East Asia, he spent two years at Lucent Technologies in the Wireless Access division. Pascal joined Alcatel in mid-1998, taking on management roles in Divisional Sales and of two Business Units. When Alcatel merged with Lucent, he became head of Alcatel-Lucent France, the group's 2nd largest subsidiary, overseeing sales in Western Europe. He then managed non-operator customers before becoming head of the EMEA Regional Business Centre for Nokia's software division. He worked for two years at ATOS Big Data and Security to develop sales before leaving to manage the Telecom Satellites Business Line at Thales Alenia Space in Cannes and Toulouse. At the end of 2020, he joined Eutelsat, the Satcom operator, to lead the 'telecom pivot' transformation, overseeing the Engineering, IT, Cyber and Operations departments as Chief Technical and Operations Officer. For two years he was a director of OneWeb, which will merge with Eutelsat at the end of 2023. He has also sat on the strategic orientation committee of an SME.

He brings his 33 years of experience to an investment fund as an independent director of a new space start-up. Over the course of his career, Pascal has gained expertise of business model transformation, rapid market turnarounds, business restructuring in down cycles, downsizing and asset disposals.

Pascal holds an Engineering Degree from Telecom Paris.
